High Court ends 'pointless' cases

The High Court has taken the rare step of imposing a restraining order on a man who made a series of 'pointless' legal claims against Newham Council

Mr Justice Collins referred to nine cases issued by or on behalf of Mr Kamran Malik which had all been dismissed by the courts as being 'truly hopeless'

A civil restraint order was issued prohibiting Mr Malik or his political party from taking legal action against decisions made by the council without the permission of a judge

School joins the best

St Bonaventure's School in Forest Gate has joined an elite network of schools

The school has become part of the Leading Edge Partnership Programme: a national network that shares good practice and learning

To be accepted St Bonaventure's had to demonstrate outstanding and innovative practice

It has joined 300 schools that have been graded by Ofsted inspectors as outstanding or good, and demonstrate excellent rates of progress and attainment

Green fingers make a difference

(Fourth right) Tommy Walsh with Sir Robin, residents, councillors and Groundwork staff

A community garden that has transformed the site of former derelict garages has officially opened by TV celebrity Tommy Walsh

Mayor Sir Robin Wales joined residents, councillors and TV builder Tommy Walsh to formally open the Dorset Road Community Garden in Forest Gate

More than 200 volunteers have been involved in creating the garden with the help of environmental regeneration charity Groundwork London

One of the aims of the project was to bring community members together to learn new skills and improve health outcomes

Sir Robin said: "Projects like this bring the people in our community together and make where we live a better place The fact that so many people have got involved is brilliant and down to a group of dedicated organisers and a lot of hard work "

The Gate library re-opens its doors

The Gate library will re-open on Monday 10 June with a new range of services

The refurbished building, located at 6-8 Woodgrange Road, E7, has improved its accessibility and layout

As well as traditional library services in bright modern facilities, there is a new customer service area where people can use easy self-service kiosks to carry out a range of council transactions

As part of the council's drive to provide securer ways for residents to make payments and to do business with the council, Docklands Local Service Centre (LSC) will close from Saturday 8 June Residents can carry out council transactions using self serve kiosks at the nearby North Woolwich Library on Pier Parade, E16, or access a range of council service online by visiting my.newham.gov.uk

Councillor Andrew Baikie, executive memeber for customer services, said "Newham is investing in its libraries We have listened to what residents want in their new libraries and the feedback received from customers who have visited so far has been excellent "

First phase of estate security consultation closes

Newham Council tenants and leaseholders living in high rise blocks have had their say about proposed changes to security arrangements.

Phase one of a consultation held earlier this year asked residents for their opinions on the current service and shared proposals for a centralised security and CCTV service, which the council believes offers an improved level of security in the most efficient and cost-effective way

Helpful feedback, including comments around estate security, are being addressed before a second stage of consultation begins

Showing the best of jobs success

One of the country's leading politicians has become the latest visitor to see how jobs are being created in Newham

Jon Cruddas MP for Dagenham and Rainham and adviser to Leader of the Opposition Ed Miliband, was given a guided tour of Skills Place in Stratford to see the borough's success at getting people into work

He met candidates from Workplace, the council's innovative jobs brokerage scheme, and employers who shared how the scheme has helped them.

Mayor Sir Robin Wales said: "The jobs market is tough and employers need people with skills that are specific to their sector

"Workplace is a blueprint for getting people who want to work into employment It meets employers' needs and is proven to get local people into jobs."

China's £1bn deal brings Royal Docks full circle

Life sometimes comes full circle and that is exactly what is happening with the Royal Docks

At their height, the docks employed 20,000 people and were a hub for trade with countries across the world. Soon they will return to life as a centre for 21st Century entrepreneurs.

Our announcement with Asian Business Port (ABP) of a £1bn state-of-the-art business district in the docks will create at least 20,000 jobs, forge new trade links with China and secure billions of pounds of inward investment.

With an abundance of land for development, world-class transport and digital infrastructure and a young, energetic workforce, the borough is ideally placed to accommodate much of London's eastwards growth in the 21st Century.

Newham has proven that we are committed to working with our partners and investors to unlock the extraordinary potential of the area. But development does not happen by accident. And regeneration means nothing if it does not transform the lives of local people.

Developments of this scale and nature in other boroughs have not delivered the community benefits that residents rightly deserve. We're not going to mirror their mistakes and have made it clear that any regeneration in Newham must benefit residents by way of jobs and training opportunities.

Newham will be working closely with ABP and their UK development partner, Stanhope, to ensure that as many of these jobs as possible are accessible to local residents. Our successful Workplace jobs brokerage scheme is ideally placed to ensure this happens.

Future generations of Newham residents already have a head start. At Kingsford Community School in Beckton they have the first Confucius Classroom in London where pupils learn Mandarin as a business language.

We have made a commitment to ABP that we will work hard to make this a reality; everyone involved wants to progress quickly.

The Royal Docks will once again increase the life chances of many of our residents. People hoping for better times talk about 'one day when my ship comes in'. Well, that day isn't far off.

(Back row) Secretary of state for communities and local government Eric Pickles MP, Chinese ambassador to the UK Liu Ming and Sir Robin Wales (front row) ABP board chairman Xu Weiping and Mayor of London Boris Johnson

Mayor's view

Fairness for all

The High Court has ruled that the Riverine Trust must stop using the Abbey Mills site as a temporary mosque and remove all buildings

Next to West Ham station, Abbey Mills has the potential to help transform the local area, bringing much needed jobs, homes and community space

Our vision has always been that this land must be redeveloped for the benefit of the whole community. A mixed use development could include a mosque, but not without additional benefits

Having owned the site for 17 years, the Riverine Trust has failed to redevelop it or even bring forward an acceptable plan for major redevelopment, other than for use as a mosque.

In 2011 the Trust offered to submit a valid planning application within 12 months. If they failed to do so, the Trust volunteered to stop using the site as a mosque and demolish all buildings on the site. A High Court has ruled that they must now honour the agreement that they themselves proposed

The Abbey Mills site was once a chemical factory, which is why it contains some of the most polluted land in Newham. The Trust will have to demolish the buildings carefully to protect the wider community

> "We owe it to all our residents to act fairly and be seen to act fairly."

We have now met the trustees to agree a reasonable timetable for them to comply with the Court's order. We are working with them to help them prepare a new planning application in line with the council's vision of a mixed use, major redevelopment to unlock the potential of Abbey Mills for all our residents

Some opportunists will try to use this issue to create division in our community. They will say this is about religion. None of this is about religion. Newham is a place of many beliefs religions and cultures, where people from many different backgrounds get on well together

We have been more than fair and reasonable with the Trust. We owe it to all our residents not just to act fairly but to be seen to act fairly. It is now time for the Trust to keep to their agreements

Historic dock development

New life is being breathed into the once thriving Royal Docks following the announcement of plans for a £1bn state-of-the-art business district expected to create 20,000 jobs.

The historic deal between Chinese commercial developer ABP will transform a 35-acre site at Royal Albert Dock. ABP see the area as a gateway for Chinese and other Asian businesses looking to establish headquarters in Europe.

The development, will forge new trade links between Britain and China and secure billions of pounds of inward investment.

Mayor Sir Robin Wales and Mayor of London Boris Johnson revealed details of the deal at City Hall with ABP's board chairman Xu Weiping.

When complete, the business district will have some of the best transport links in the capital, with direct access to central and west London via the new Crossrail route coming in 2018, as well as London City Airport.

The deal represents one of the first direct investments by a Chinese developer in London's property market. The development will be London's third largest business district, after the City and Canary Wharf, and boost local employment by up to 30 per cent. Initial projections estimate it will be worth £6bn to the UK economy, generating £23m in business rates and act as a catalyst for further development in the area.

Sir Robin said: "We welcome ABP's ambitious vision for the docks, which are already home to the University of East London, the Siemens Crystal and ExCeL.

"This proposal will bring further investment from abroad and unlock future development. It will also create benefits for local people by providing thousands of new jobs and further enhancing the waterfront."

Xu Weiping said: "I am delighted that ABP is coming to Newham and am committed to working with Sir Robin and Newham Council to ensure that the jobs created are accessible to local people."

The new business district will eventually be home to more than 3.2m square feet of high quality work, retail and leisure space, including 2.5m square-feet of prime office space, creating a vibrant 24/7 destination on London's waterways.

HIGH COURT ORDERS REMOVAL OF TEMPORARY MOSQUE FROM ABBEY MILLS

The High Court has ruled that the Riverine Trust must stop using Abbey Mills as a mosque and remove all buildings from the site.

Abbey Mills in West Ham has the potential to bring much needed jobs, homes and community space as a gateway to the wider area. It is a riverside location, larger than six international rugby pitches, next to West Ham station. The station itself is the second busiest in Newham, after Stratford, with more than six-million passengers entering or exiting every year.

Newham Council believes that any large developments should bring benefits for all our residents. An independent report has indicated that the Abbey Mills site could reasonably accommodate around 1,100 homes and approximately 15,000sqm of floor space for retail, office or community use, with the potential of generating up to 900 permanent jobs.

The Riverine Trust has owned the Abbey Mills site since 1997 and built a number of structures that do not have planning permission. As a former chemical works, the site contains some of the most polluted land in Newham.

In 2011 the Trust volunteered to submit a valid planning application for a mixed use scheme within 12 months. If they did not do so, the Trust offered to stop using the site as a mosque and remove all of the buildings on it. The High Court has decided that their failure to do so means they must now honour their agreement "forthwith"

The High Court judge said he had taken into account the impact of his decision on people worshipping at the mosque. However, in his view the Trust had not performed the obligation they freely entered into.

Cabinet member and local councillor, Clive Furness said: "Despite owning the land for 17 years, the Riverine Trust has failed to redevelop it or even bring forward a plan for major regeneration other than a mosque."

Since the judge's ruling, the council has met with the Trustees to understand their timetable to meet the Court order. It is the Trust's legal responsibility to stop using the site as a mosque and remove all buildings. The Trust also had an opportunity to set out their future plans for a mixed use development to bring jobs, homes and community space to Abbey Mills.

Working up a new business

Most residents consider Workplace, Newham Council's job brokerage service, to be their first port of call when looking for work. As well as employment and training, did you know that it can also help you set up your own business or enterprise?

Working with East London Small Business Centre (ELSBC), Workplace offers a range of support, including a four day business start up course, one-to-one advice and loans from the Start Up Loans Company. All you have to do is decide where your passion lies and have an achievable goal.

Someone who already made that decision is Lauren Drew from Forest Gate. Two years ago she approached ELSBC to get support with starting a business. She now runs her own graphic design and marketing company Fifi T.

Lauren signed up to a one-week introduction to self-employment and says: "I thought that it was fantastic, especially considering it is completely free. If you had to pay for something like that it would be quite a lot of money."

Lauren explained how ELSBC also gave her an advisor who was experienced and knowledgeable about her chosen industry. They helped her to create a business plan, which she presented to the ELSBC Board. Lauren's plan was successful. She was also given support to secure a five-year loan from the Start-Up Loans Company.

How did your business come about?

Two years ago I came back from travelling and found it really difficult to find employment. At Workplace an advisor suggested the ELSBC. Until I spoke to the advisor I didn't even realise that self-employment was a way to get off the dole.

ELSBC are really good. They offer things like short business courses and give you advice on what to expect before you get fully involved.

What support do you receive now?

If I have any problems my advisor is either at the end of the phone or I can meet him. That's what is so fantastic about the ELSBC. It's all completely free and they help you to really get serious about your own business. Most importantly, whenever you need help they are there.

How did you come up with the idea for Fifi T?

The name is just made up, it's my first pet and my mother's maiden name, but shortened to Fifi T because it sounds better. There are two tiers to what I am doing. There's Fifi T Designs, where I offer branding, and marketing solutions for other companies and then I design my own clothes and accessories under Fifi T, which is going to be an online shop. I'm also selling my designs at Woodgrange Market and I'm going to be taking it to Camden Market as well, so I'm very busy.

Was it difficult setting up a business in these tough economic times?

Yeah, I'm not going to lie, but everyone is struggling. I was struggling just to find a job. My thinking is if you're going to have to struggle, why not get ahead yourself, or at least try to, because quite often people can rot on the dole queue.

This is a fantastic opportunity if you can get serious and if you've got the determination, you can get yourself out of poverty, off benefits, or even out of a job that you hate. Whatever your situation is, something like this can help you be independent and hopefully do something that you actually enjoy.

If you live in Newham and are looking for work visit www.newhamworkplace.co.uk or call Workplace on 020 8430 6600.

To get support setting up your own business visit http://goeast.org or call the ELSBC on 020 7377 8821.

If you are aged 18 to 30 you may be eligible for a start up loan from the Start-Up Loans Company. To find out more visit www.startuploans.co.uk

The language of angels

Theatre Royal Stratford East is known for its risk taking, cutting-edge drama and its season of Angelic Tales is no exception. The five-day festival of new plays by up and coming writers is taking place this month.

This year you can see a staggering 12 plays over five nights. It's a great chance to see powerful, compelling and hilarious stories by some of the country's most exciting new voices.

One of these is 26-year-old Sarah Crook, who debuts as a stage writer with her comedy Stitched Up.

The play is about a bridal boutique in Stratford where your dream dress comes with sequins and diamanté. Romance is a booming business, until the chief salesgirl gets jilted at the altar.

Sarah knows Stratford well. She says that she loves the way that it has developed whilst retaining its character. She can still find unique, niche stores alongside the high street chains. It is this mix that made her want to set her play there.

Sarah said, "Writing a play is something that I've always wanted to do. It's been really educational as a writer to see how things change, how they are interpreted and even the intonation that the actors give the lines.

"Sharing something for the first time can be quite nerve-wracking, but sharing with people who are so open, honest and helpful has been special. It's nice. It's like a family at Theatre Royal."

Stitched Up is showing at the theatre at 9pm on Thursday 13 June. Angelic Tales runs from Tuesday 11 to Saturday 15 June. There are different plays every night and five on Saturday. Tickets are £8 (£5 concs). Visit www.stratfordeast.com for more information or call 020 8534 0310.

A food and football revolution

International football star Jermain Defoe swapped the pitch for a pinny when he visited Jamie's Ministry of Food Stratford at East Ham Leisure Centre, E6, to mark Food Revolution Day.

The acclaimed England, Tottenham Hotspur and former West Ham United striker was joined by children from Rokeby School, E16, Nelson Primary, E6, Brampton Manor, E6, Carpenters Primary, E15, Manor Primary, E15, and the Shipman Youth Zone, E16, and Councillor Richard Crawford.

The young people joined Jermain to work up an appetite on the pitch before tucking in to a cooking masterclass.

Griddling chicken for his fajitas, Jermain said: "I'm a local boy and coming back here is really special for me. A lot of my family still live in east London and Newham. It's my roots and you can never forget that."

Jermain has fond memories of playing five-a-side on the pitches at Newham Leisure Centre, but it was going to St Bonaventure's school, in Forest Gate, that defined who he is today.

> "Not many realise that what you eat is as important as playing"

Jermain praises his maths teacher Mr Barrett for helping him keep a focus on his schoolwork, and cites Mr Lee and Mr Skelton for picking him for the school team and kick starting his football career.

Jermain made his professional debut for the Hammers when he was 17. He said: "I remember it like it was yesterday. The match was against Walsall in the Worthington Cup.

"Towards the end of the game it was still nil-nil, and with five minutes to go manager Harry Redknapp said: 'You're going on, get warmed up.' I was a bit nervous, so my first touch was a pass back. Then on my second touch I just hit a shot on the volley with my left foot. It went in and we won the game one nil. It was unbelievable."

Jermain's family love to cook so when he met Jamie Oliver, supporting his campaign for a healthier diet was something he was keen to get his teeth into. He said: "I meet a lot of kids and they say, 'I want to be an athlete or a footballer.' But I think not many realise that what you eat is as important as playing. Something as simple as making sure you've got a lot of different colours on your plate is really important to help understand what to eat."

Jamie Oliver's Ministry of Food Stratford will be at the Mayor's Newham Show, for full details turn to p14 or visit www.newham.com/summer

Make chicken fajitas like Jermain Defoe
Serves 2

Ingredients

1 red pepper
1 red onion
1 skinless boneless chicken breast
1 tsp smoked paprika
2 limes
olive oil
a pinch of salt, black pepper and cumin
2 large, flour tortillas
150ml low-fat yoghurt
50g cheddar cheese

Equipment

Griddle pan
Tongs
Microwave/frying pan

Instructions

1 Put the griddle pan on a high heat
2 Deseed the pepper and cut into thin strips Peel halve, and finely slice your onion Slice the chicken lengthways into long strips
3 Put the peppers, onion and chicken into a bowl with the paprika and cumin Squeeze over juice of half a lime drizzle some olive oil season with salt and pepper and mix well Place to one side to marinate for five minutes
4 Using a pair of tongs place the pepper, onion and chicken into the griddle pan Cook for six to eight-minutes until the chicken is golden Turn regularly to avoid burning
5 Warm your tortillas up in a microwave or on a warm, dry frying pan Once heated, place on individual plates
6 Squeeze the remaining lime over the chicken while in the griddle pan
7 Divide the chicken mixture between the two tortillas, sprinkle over the cheddar and wrap each tortilla
8 Serve with salsa, guacamole and yoghurt and enjoy

Visit www.newham.gov.uk/jermaindefoe for the long version of this article which includes how to make guacamole and salsa to complement this dish

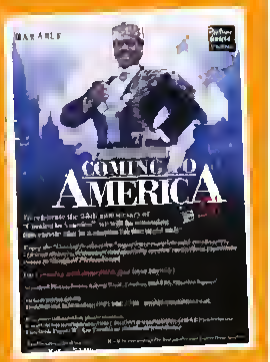
Exclusive Father's Day competitions

Win tickets to Coming to America's 25th anniversary show



Do you remember 1988? A year when curly perms were big, and Michael Jackson was Bad. It was also the year that Eddie Murphy starred in Coming to America - a film about an African prince who visits the USA to find true love.

On Thursday 20 June at 7pm, for one night only, We Are Parable and Stratford Picture House will be showing Coming to America at the cinema in Theatre Square, E15. To mark the screening there will be traditional African drumming, dance performances and a market stall.

To be in with the chance of winning two VIP tickets (best seats and a free themed cocktail) answer this question:

In which of these films did Eddie Murphy play a donkey?

1. Trading Places
2. Shrek
3. Beverly Hills Cop

Standard tickets cost £6.50. Visit www.picturehouses.co.uk to book.

Win £50 to spend in Waitrose or John Lewis

When the British summer is at its best, there is no better way to celebrate Father's Day than by getting the family together for a picnic. And where better to get your fresh ingredients than Waitrose?

To be in with a chance of winning a £50 shopping voucher (which can also be used in John Lewis) answer the following question:

What do you traditionally carry a picnic in?

1. Your pocket
2. A hamper
3. A shopping trolley.

Win a Father's Day lunch at Theatre Royal

You could win a Father's Day meal and drinks (house wine or soft drinks) for up to two adults and two children at the Theatre Royal Bar, Gerry Raffles Square, E15, on Sunday 16 June.

Theatre Royal Stratford East is hosting a free Father's Day event from 1-6pm. The celebration will include live music, face painting and more. If the weather is good there will be a BBQ outside as well as the delicious bar food inside.

To be in with a chance of winning the free lunch answer this question:

What gives barbecued food its unique taste?

1. Ice cream
2. Smoke
3. Chocolate sauce

Seeing the sights of Newham

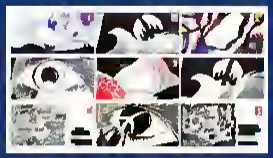
Children from Essex Primary School, E12, recently got to be tourists in their own borough when they took a bus tour around Newham.

They learned key skills such as map reading and got to see the Thames Barrier, Royal Albert Dock, the Emirates Air Line, the Champions football sculpture and West Ham United's Boleyn Ground.

Even though many of the children had lived in Newham their whole lives, they were surprised by how much there was to see

Schools interested in taking a tour of Newham should call Jean Jeffrey on 020 3373 0421 or 07791 376 535 for more information or email Jean.Jeffrey@newham.gov.uk

Mail art makes a comeback



Kevin and James Gillen, a father and son from Stratford, are making a splash on Facebook by publishing their works of art online and are asking you to join in.

The duo are encouraging residents to create their own works of art on envelopes and postcards and send them on to friends and family, and ask them to do the same.

You can also showcase your artwork by scanning in your designs and emailing them to jamesbgillen@yahoo.com. The best examples will be exhibited on their facebook gallery. To find out more go to facebook, search for mail art and look for their logo.

Community clean up call

Hard working residents got together to spring clean their area.

People living in and around Abbey Road, E15, including Councillor Richard Crawford, executive member for community affairs, rolled up their sleeves and worked up a sweat collecting bags of rubbish and dumped tyres.

The clean up, supported by Newham Council, CleanUp UK and Play, Sow and Grow, proved so popular that residents are coming together again to spruce up another area.

In the coming weeks, the group will identify which spot to tackle next. If you'd like to get involved come to Play, Sow and Grow, Gay Road, E15, on Saturday 15 June, at 10am. The group is also looking for volunteers to become gardening champions and help build a children's play and gardening area at Play, Sow, and Grow.

Email emma.harrington@cleanupuk.org.uk or call Emma on 07950 345 639 for more information.

A village fete in Forest Gate
